DHIMURRU ACCESS PERMIT REQUIREMENTS

Dhimurru implements and manages an access permit system which enables people to have access to popular Designated Recreational Areas on Aboriginal land, whilst ensuring that land owners requirements are met. Dhimurru has been delegated authority to issue these permits from the Northern Land Council pursuant to the Northern Territory Aboriginal Land Act 1979.

Guests wishing to visit a Dhimurru Designated Recreation Area (for recreational purposes) must obtain a General Permit before accessing the area. Guests may also need to obtain a Special Permit (dependent on which Recreation Area is to be accessed).

Special Permit areas are subject to additional requirements aimed at minimising recreational impacts, maintaining access for Yolngu, and providing exclusive opportunities for visitors (i.e. those areas where only one group is allowed at a time). Bookings for Special Permit areas are required. A General Permit is a prerequisite to obtaining a Special Permit.

All Dhimurru Recreation Permits can be obtained online via our website www.dhimurru.com.au or by coming into the Dhimurru office between 9:30am – 1pm, Monday to Friday.

NLC (NORTHERN LAND COUNCIL)

Arnhem Land consists of nearly 100,000 sq km of Aboriginal owned land. The Yolngu people (Aboriginal people of the region) have inalienable freehold title over this land, currently with the exception of the mining lease that the town of Nhulunbuy is located on. The title to this land is held by The Aboriginal Land Trust. Permission to enter onto Aboriginal Land outside of the mining lease MUST be obtained from the Northern Land Council. If you plan to drive to Nhulunbuy from the Stuart Highway, you must access an NLC permit, otherwise you are not covered by any insurance in case of an accident. Please contact the Nhulunbuy office on (08) 8986 8500.

SWIMMING

Saltwater crocodiles inhabit all natural waterways in the Northern Territory. You can swim safely at the Nhulunbuy Olympic sized public swimming pool located adjacent to Nhulunbuy Corporation, Endeavour Square.
